A COLLABORATIVE POETRY PROJECT

ISABEL CASTRILLO, AND YUMIKO TANIE

TEACHER: PAULA DINCER - APRIL 24, 2018

Hmmm,
How should we put this together?

Let's move things around!

We should change
this line...

I like this way better !

Yeah, let's
change
these lines,
too!

BLUE IS

Blue is the color of the earth from the moon, its deep oceans.

Blue is the Caribbean beach everyone loves and enjoys.

Blue is travelling around the world in a sailboat.

Blue is the “Royal Copenhagen” pottery that hangs on my mother’s living room wall.

Blue is a calm and peaceful color, although sometimes cruel.

Blue is keeping me calm, and keeping me awake.

Blue is baby boy smell, my daughter's eyes, and her favorite color.

Blue is the color of a new pair of jeans in the Spring and Isabel's cardigan.

Blue is the ink on the letters we used to write before SMS.

Blue is water, clarity, and shadows at dusk.

Blue is an iceberg, cool and cold.

Blue is the sky in the U.S. -- strong sunshine, and a little wind.

Blue makes us smart.

Blue is crocuses in the Alps, the dead frozen fish in the backyard pool,
the recycle bins in the city streets.

Blue is my fingers after eating Maine blueberries on a summer afternoon.

Blue is freedom.
